Ali Ibn Abi Taalib was born in Mecca in 600 CE. He was the cousin and son-in-law of the Prophet Muhammad, and he played a key role in the early development of Islam. Ali was a skilled military leader and a wise counselor, and he was one of the most respected figures in the Muslim community.

Ali's History of Islam was written in the early 8th century CE. It is a chronological account of the history of Islam, from the birth of the Prophet Muhammad to the reign of the early Abbasid caliphs. The book is based on a wide range of sources, including the Quran, the hadith, and the works of earlier historians. Ali's History of Islam is an important source of information about the early history of Islam. It provides valuable insights into the political, social, and religious developments of the period.

The book is divided into three main parts:

1. The pre-Islamic period
2. The life of the Prophet Muhammad
3. The early Abbasid caliphate

The pre-Islamic period covers the history of Arabia before the birth of the Prophet Muhammad. Ali discusses the political, social, and religious conditions of Arabia at the time. He also discusses the rise of the Quraysh tribe, which was the dominant tribe in Mecca at the time of Muhammad's birth.

The life of the Prophet Muhammad covers the period from Muhammad's birth to his death in 632 CE. Ali discusses Muhammad's childhood, his early life in Mecca, and his mission as a prophet. He also discusses the establishment of the Islamic state in Medina and the spread of Islam throughout Arabia.

The early Abbasid caliphate covers the period from the accession of Abu al-Abbas al-Saffah in 750 CE to the fall of the Abbasid caliphate in 1258 CE. Ali discusses the political, social, and religious developments of this period. He also discusses the rise of the Shia and Sunni sects within Islam.
