Synopsis:

Karen Brewer, the beloved baby sister of the Baby-sitters Club's president, Kristy, is back with another heartwarming and hilarious adventure. This time, Karen is faced with the dreaded chicken pox. Determined to make the best of a bad situation, Karen decides to entertain herself by watching her favorite TV show, "The Jeffersons." However, her plans are quickly derailed when her siblings, Kristy and Andrew, start teasing her about her spots.

Undeterred, Karen decides to take matters into her own hands. She enlists the help of her friends, Nancy Wheeler and her younger brother, Teddy, to stage a mock wedding in the backyard. Karen is the beautiful bride, complete with a veil and flowers, while Teddy serves as the handsome groom. Nancy acts as the minister, and Andrew is reluctantly assigned the role of the ring bearer.

As the ceremony gets underway, Karen and Teddy exchange vows, promising to love and cherish each other until their spots were gone. Unfortunately, Andrew's mischievous behavior threatens to ruin the moment. He accidentally drops the ring and then proceeds to sneeze on the bride and groom. Chaos ensues, and the mock wedding ends in a fit of laughter and sneezes.

Despite the setbacks, Karen's chicken pox adventure is filled with love, laughter, and the unbreakable bonds of family and friendship.
