The Yoga of Divine Works is a spiritual guidebook written by Paramahansa Yogananda in 1949. The book is a collection of teachings on the nature of the divine, the importance of selfless action, and the cultivation of a deep and abiding love for all creation. Yogananda's teachings are based on the ancient wisdom of yoga and Vedanta, and they offer a profound and transformative path to awakening.

The book is divided into four parts. The first part, "The Nature of the Divine," explores the nature of God and the relationship between God and humanity. Yogananda teaches that God is the source of all creation, and that we are all an expression of God's love. He also teaches that we can experience God through meditation and selfless service.

The second part of the book, "The Importance of Selfless Action," explores the importance of selfless action in our spiritual development. Yogananda teaches that selfless action is the key to unlocking our divine potential. He also teaches that we should not be attached to the fruits of our actions, but rather focus on the joy of serving others.

The third part of the book, "The Cultivation of Divine Love," explores the cultivation of a deep and abiding love for all creation. Yogananda teaches that love is the most powerful force in the universe, and that we can experience true happiness and fulfillment only when we open our hearts to love.

The fourth part of the book, "The Path to Divine Realization," explores the path to divine realization. Yogananda teaches that divine realization is the ultimate goal of human existence, and that we can achieve this goal through meditation, selfless service, and the cultivation of divine love.

The Yoga of Divine Works is a profound and transformative spiritual guidebook that has the power to inspire and uplift readers on their journey towards spiritual realization. Yogananda's teachings are clear, concise, and practical, and they offer a roadmap for those who seek to experience the divine within themselves and in the world around them.
